

ABSTRACT

A solar energy collector comprised of Fresnel lenses attached by support frames to a solar tracking drive. Each of the Fresnel lenses is continuously aligned with the sun during a desired period of operation and are maintained at a focus distance from energy absorbers by the support frames and the solar tracking drive. The energy absorbers may be absorption 5 conduit.